Libraries for Life

Each year the Ontario Library Association (OLA) chooses a theme for Ontario Public Library Week and I have spent some time contemplating this year's theme, Libraries for Life. The goal of this week is to raise awareness of valuable role libraries have in peoples' lives. Does this then mean that libraries are there for and have something to offer people from 'cradle to grave' as some might say? Or perhaps it means that libraries are present to provide people with improved quality of life? Maybe the phrase refers to lifelong learning and personal growth made possible by public libraries through their collections, programming and resources? Perhaps the meaning is something else that has escaped me. Likely it has all those meanings and more for a very simple reason, the value people get from a library is unique to each individual.

For Ontario Public Library Week we ask that you contemplate what our library's value is to you. How has it affected your life? What meaning does it have to you? Your valuation of our library combined with others will be immeasurable but one fact will stand out: Libraries have a positive impact on our community and the lives of people that make up that community.

This year's Ontario Public Library Week runs from October 16th to the 20th. Please join us for our many planned activities.

Our History

From the Archives of the
Sault Ste. Marie Public Library

The date, May 4, 1889 marks the launching of a ship that was built by the Detroit Dry Dock company under the name S.S. Manchester.

One of the unique features of this ship was that it had a composite hull meaning that the hull was constructed with iron frames and keel with wooden planking. The Manchester carried a variety of cargo around the ports of the Great Lakes for many years. It was sold several times, undergoing a number of name changes in the following years.

In 1928 it was converted to a crane equipped vessel. On December 31, 1945 the ship was sold to Captain Feliciano Manzutti from Sault Ste. Marie.

He made the final name change for this ship on June 3, 1946 when it became known as the Yankcanuck of the Yankcanuck Transportation Company. The ship name relates directly back to the husband and wife owners. Eleanor Manzutti was an American (Yank) while Captain Manzutti was a Canadian (Canuck) so a combination of the two terms produced Yankcanuck.

However after sailing the Great Lakes for 70 years, the last composite hulled steamer on the Great Lakes suffered damage forcing the decision to have it dismantled and set on fire at Saw Mill Bay in 1960.

However, it did not take long to resurrect the ship name and construction of a new ship began on September 20, 1962 in Collingwood Ontario when the keel was laid. The M.V. Yankcanuck was built by Canadian Shipbuilding and Engineering for Yankcanuck Steamship Limited.

On April 27, 1963, in front of invited guests, spectators, and officials, the new Yankcanuck was christened with the traditional bottle of champagne.

The ship was built with additional reinforcements for navigating icy waters and incorporated high impact Algoma Cor-Ten Steel which was manufactured by Algoma Steel Corporation.

In addition, 90 per cent of the steel used in its construction was from Algoma Steel. The vessel measured approximately 324 feet in length but was also designed so another 50 feet could be added without jeopardizing the ship's seaworthiness, speed or class. The vessel also had a carrying capacity of 4500 long tons. The Sault Star reported on Captain W.C. Dexter's docking of the vessel at the Sault Harbour to officially open the 1964 St. Marys River navigation season.

Most the cargo carried by the Yankcanuck was steel products being transported from Algoma Steel down to Detroit. On December 31, 1970, Yankcanuck Steamship Company Limited was sold to the Algoma Steel Corporation, which led to the formation of the Algoma Steel Corporation – Marine Division.

Skipper Manzutti, the former owner, worked alongside Captain Leath R. Davis during the transition and in 1972, the crossed flags of Yankcanuck Steamship was replaced with the flaming A of Algoma Steel.

The vessel changed owners over the years but continued to retain its original name. In 1976 it was sold to Chemco Equipment Finance to raise money to build a new furnace and was bought back in 1983 and then sold to Purvis Marine Limited of Sault Ste. Marie in 1991.

Over the years, the Yankcanuck had been upgraded with new technology but its job as a cargo ship remained constant. She visited ports on the Great Lakes like Sault Ste. Marie and Thunder Bay as well the East Coast in Newfoundland and Labrador all the way to the Arctic to carry supplies.

The Yankcanuck's final voyage was November 18, 2016 when she sailed through the Soo Locks. She was then towed from Purvis Dock to a scrapping facility. Like its predecessor the Yankcanuck continued to serve its function as a reliable cargo ship just as Captain Manzutti intended.

Re-organizing is ongoing . . .

The Friends are starting off the Fall season after a complete beauty makeover in the Bookstore. Thanks to all who helped with the moving of books and putting things back together. Along with the new flooring and a paint “touch up”, the Bookstore shelves have been rearranged in Room Three. Some shelving was lost to make the space more accessible, and new shelves were added on the walls to fill any gaps. A big shout out to the Winmar workers who went above and beyond to maximize our shelf space!

A customer enjoys the new space.

Please ask a volunteer if your favourite genre seems to be missing. We hope to have everything in place and clearly labelled soon! The changes to the back room have made the space much brighter and more accessible. A big thank you to Library CEO Matthew MacDonald – we love our new flooring!

Our Little Free Library is in the Biodiversity Garden at the James L. McIntyre Centennial Library.

We are having a great year financially as well. Thanks again to Monica as we are all learning what books may be valued a bit higher – and sometimes a lot higher!
